What is the HealthGrades hospital rating system?

HealthGrades objectively rates the performance of almost every hospital in the United States engaged in the critical medical specialties of cardiac surgery, cardiology, orthopaedic surgery, neurosciences, pulmonary/respiratory, vascular surgery, and obstetrics. (Obstetrics information is available for 17 states only.) Using a risk-adjustment model to take into account variations in the risk of illness of patients cared for by different hospitals, HealthGrades rates hospitals with a five-star rating system. Top-rated hospitals receive five stars. Three-star hospitals perform as expected - the difference between their actual and predicted performance is not statistically significant - and are referred to as "average." One star indicates lower-rated hospitals. The site displays outcome data (e.g., inhospital mortality) by procedure or diagnosis (e.g., coronary bypass surgery). This can be valuable information for patients and referring physicians. See the Hospital Report Cards™ Methodology for more details on the HealthGrades hospital analysis.

医療情報提供のあり方検討に対する示唆

- I. 個々の医療機関が独自に情報提供するケースと地域医療圏内の第三者機関が情報提供するケースを区別して議論する必要がある。

地域住民から見た情報の信頼性、利便性を高める仕組みとして地域医療圏WEBサイトの構築が必要

- II. 消費者ニーズに応えることができる水準まで医療情報コンテンツの質を拡充するためにはインフラとなるデータベース構築が急務

タイプ異なる複数の医療圏で臨床・コストのデータベース構築を加速させる仕組みを創ることが必要
